

Intended and Targeted Victims

Compiled by Peter Langman, Ph.D.

This is a listing of school shooters who targeted specific people or groups of people in their attacks. In most cases, their targets were killed or wounded, but in some cases the intended victims survived unscathed. The chart also lists people whom the shooters thought about killing, even if they changed their minds prior to the attack or made no effort to seek them out during the attack. The term “prior” is used in cases of homicidal thoughts or behavior that occurred months or years before the shooting, and thus was not part of the perpetrator’s intent at the time of the attack. This data was compiled because knowledge about victim selection is useful in understanding the perpetrators’ motives.

In many cases, it was clear that certain victims were targeted. In some cases, however, this was ambiguous; these cases are indicated by stating that the perpetrator “may have” or “reportedly” targeted one or more victims. Victims are only included if there is reason to think that they were actually targeted. In other cases, for example, teachers may have been shot, but there is no indication that they were singled out; i.e., they appear to have simply been in the wrong place at the wrong time. The category of “females” includes primarily those shooters with homicidal thoughts towards girls or women who rejected them or who were homicidal toward females in general. I added to this category that of “romantic partners” (in parentheses) to include those female shooters who targeted former male partners.

Though not in the chart, many adult shooters shot young children. Rather than committing attacks against people their own age, they sought out much younger victims. These shooters include Andrew Kehoe, Tyrone Mitchell, Laurie Dann, James Wilson, Patrick Purdy, Thomas Hamilton, Duane Morrison, Charles Roberts IV, Bruco Eastwood, Brendan O’Rourke, Wellington de Oliveira, and Adam Lanza. Several of these singled out girls as victims.

In addition, envy may have been a factor in many shootings beyond those in which specific rivals were killed.

The perpetrators are listed in chronological order. Details about them and their attacks can be found in my books and at schoolshooters.info.
